President's Corner

Gravel Lakers,

Another summer season has come and gone.

Fall is upon us, but I'd say we had a pretty good year! I received great feedback on our 2nd Annual picnic and 4th of July activities. The Venetian Night boat parade was a success so we'll consider it for next year (wink). We were also lucky to have an enthusiastic group of volunteers, led by Kevin and Tammi Lalone, organize our first annual Gravel Lake Poker Run. It was lots of fun and someone mentioned to me that "we beat Cedar Lake!" These are all things that make Gravel Lake VERY special. We're fortunate to have both the volunteers and participation that we get in both our social and environmental efforts.

Thanks to all of you who do what you do!

Craig

Letter to the Editor

Dear fellow Gravel Lakers,

I am writing to inform you of a family in need of your help. My neighbors and friends of many years, Art and Fran Earl of Sandy Beach, need help for their grandson, Noah Earl. Noah is 18 years old and was doing all of the normal things teens do before he became ill. He has been diagnosed with PANDAS (Pediatric Autoimmune Neuropsychiatric Disease, Associated with Streptococcal infection). It has caused him to have seizures and it has affected his mental state. This is a very rare disease and it has no diagnostic code at this time. A diagnostic code enables doctors to bill insurance companies. No code equals no insurance at this time. His first treatment will cost $10,000 cash up front. Following appointments will be $500 each, in cash. I am asking on Art's behalf for prayers and donations for his grandson. Donations can be made out to: FBO Noah Earl, c/o Art and Fran Earl, 92573 Gravel Lake Drive Lawton, MI 49065. The Earl's phone number is 269-978-1995. Or you can donate online by going to www.gofundme.com. In the search field, enter "Noah Earl" and his donation site will come up.

Thanking you in advance,
Lynn Flavin

P.S. You know where to send the prayers!

Puxatawny Phil: Woodchuck or Gopher?

How much wood could a woodchuck chuck, if a woodchuck could chuck wood? We've all heard this common children's rhyme. (Answer: None! Woodchucks don't chuck wood!) Read on to learn about this curious little creature.

Description and Habitat

Groundhog, woodchuck, and whistle-pig are three names for the same furry animals that can be seen running and burrowing about Gravel Lake. Maybe most accurately known as the groundhog, this small animal is a rodent that is part of the squirrel family. They can grow bigger than two feet long and up to nine pounds with a furry coat that has two dense layers. As the groundhog is quite resourceful, it uses its curved front feet to dig underground burrows in which to live. These burrows include different areas for different functions, such as a "bathroom" used only for defecation. They can excavate more than 700 pounds of dirt while digging out their homes, some of which can be as large as 22 yards long. These rodents are a bit like some of us Gravel Lakers, in that they usually have a summer home. They abandon their winter burrows after hibernation season for a new den in the summer. Though groundhogs usually prefer forest clearings and other spacious areas to make their burrows, many times we can find them seeking shelter under our decks and patios. After their burrows are abandoned either for a new burrow or due to the end of life (usually around 3-6 years), other critters, such as raccoons, may seek refuge in their empty underground dens.

Life as a Groundhog

Though small, these little critters can be very protective over their home, especially in guarding their babies. The groundhog has large incisors and sharp front claws for defense. They sometimes make a high pitch whistling noise when threatened, earning them the nickname "whistle pigs". Groundhog babies usually stay with their mother until about six weeks of age when they are ready to fend for themselves. Other than defending their babies, groundhogs are mainly solitary animals, only seeking a partner during the mating season. The male groundhog is quite promiscuous, maintaining a "territory" during mating season claiming up to seven females!

While the groundhog itself is an herbivore, consuming mostly vegetation for nutrition, they are often the prey of animals higher up on the food chain. Predators of the groundhog may include wolves, foxes, hawks, bears, and snakes. People are predators of the woodchuck as well, as this critter may become somewhat of a nuisance, destroying crops or becoming aggressive in guarding their dens. To help control this problem, many take matters into their own hands. While the groundhog is open to hunting year round, you MUST have a valid small game license in the state of Michigan to kill these rodents legally. A better option might be trap and release, so as to not harm our furry little friends.

Other Fun Facts

Did you know...

- Woodchucks don't chuck wood at all.
- Young woodchucks are born blind and hairless.
- Groundhogs are used in scientific research to study liver cancer. Groundhogs that are injected with Hepatitis B are 100% likely to develop liver cancer, making them an excellent candidate to study treatments for the disease.

Join the GLA Facebook Group!

Join the Gravel Lake Association Facebook group! It is an excellent way for us to connect with our fellow lakers. Important lake-related information is posted there frequently, including weed treatment dates, when the newsletter is available, event info, lost-and-found info, announcements, recommendations, and surveys where you can voice your opinion. People also post pictures from around the lake, even in the winter! Our goal for the end of 2014 is 275 followers.

This is Michigan's official groundhog "Woody".

Water Quality Survey Update

By the time you receive this, the Board of Trustees will likely have chosen a contractor to conduct a comprehensive water quality survey on Gravel Lake. Our most recent Request for Proposal contains a water quality survey that includes the entire lake plus its immediate watershed, an aquatic plant survey, and a detailed fishery study. In short, the intent of this survey is to provide us with a lake management "report card" or a "how-are-we-doing?" I've received very positive feedback on all of our finalists from various area lake associations that I meet with twice annually via the Michigan Lakes and Streams Association. Once a vendor is chosen, work is scheduled to begin the spring of 2015.

Michigan Riparian Subscriptions – Now FREE for Dues-Paying Members!

Based on feedback at the last two membership meetings, the Board of Trustees has resolved to provide subscriptions to The Michigan Riparian to all dues-paying members upon request. Many of you already receive this important and informative publication. For those of you that don't, you're missing out on a well-written periodical that covers many lake-related issues including water quality, aquatic plant & animal information, geographical/historical information on various Michigan lakes, as well as legal information pertaining to riparian rights. To take advantage of this membership benefit, simply check the box on your next invoice (for 2015) and you'll begin receiving this highly pertinent magazine. For those who are currently subscribed, please understand that it may take a full subscription cycle to realize this free benefit.

Public Access Clean-Up

On October 11, volunteers came to the Public Access to help clean it up. We may not have made the mess, but as part of our lake environment, it is important to take care of the public places. Thank you to all who volunteered and to Jen Kitzmiller for organizing the clean-up! If you missed the clean-up but wanted to participate, be sure to join the Gravel Lake Association group on Facebook. Helpful information such as this is posted there.

A moonbeam shines down
On Halloween eve,
Searching for evil
And all who deceive.

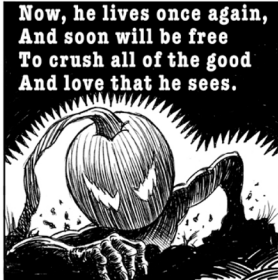

It searches the cities,
The towns, and the farms
For the one to create
Destruction and harm.

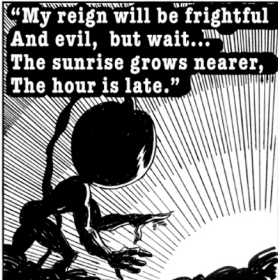

It finds him at last,
The one who will bring
Terror and chaos...
The Halloween King.

He lived once before,
This Halloween King,
His spirit brought death
To all living things.

Now, he lives once again,
And soon will be free
To crush all of the good
And love that he sees.

"My reign will be frightful
And evil, but wait..."
The sunrise grows nearer,
The hour is late."

"I'll continue at nightfall
When all beings will sing
The praises and power of
The Halloween King."
