President's Corner

I'm sorry to see another summer come and go, but I sure had a SUPER time!

Gravel Lake continues to be a special place (almost perfect) because of the very unique community we have. I hear it time and again from friends and acquaintances who frequent other lakes. One case in point is our level of volunteerism. This year, we had several lake association volunteers retire from various positions. Carlie DeSimone (2006), Greg & Jen Kitzmiller (2006), Debbie Dorsey (2004), and Donna DeRosa (2004) all retired from their trustee positions after 10+ years of service though we retain Carlie in her fundraising role. Please join me in thanking them for their extensive service over this time! While we're disappointed to see some veterans go, I'm still pleased to say that new volunteers have stepped up: Phil Rinaldi (Gebhard), Jen Micheli (Sandy), Linda (welcome back!) & Kristy Vitkauskas (Streeter). Additionally, we've had Eric Herchenroether carry the torch for the Fun Run (so Emily Garrett could bring us baby Jack Heinz) and Larry Grembowicz will be helping out Greg Garrett with water quality sampling.

Furthermore, I'm happy to report that both Mark Hunter and Phil Rinaldi are actively pushing our effort to make Shaw Road safer for pedestrians with local government (more on that later). It seems like recruiting gets easier each year; thank you for that!! I attribute much of this to the strong sense of community we have and the above average interest many of you have in getting involved to continuously improve our association.

Your interest and enthusiasm has also been evident in our Gravel Lake Association survey. As I write this, we've received over 218 responses with many of you taking the time to provide detailed feedback in the write-in questions. The Board of Trustees will review all of this data to make sure we're on the right path and make changes where necessary. Thanks for taking the time to do this! Following are a sample of facts we've gleaned thus far (with more to come in the future).

- 35% of respondents make their primary home at Gravel Lake.
- 90% of respondents said that water quality should be the priority of the GLA while 51% chose social/community as the 2nd most common answer.
- 92% of respondents indicated they ALWAYS read the Gravel Laker cover-to-cover!
- 63% of respondents view the Facebook group frequently.
- 65% of respondents are aware of the recent water quality survey results. We'll work on that!

Thank you again and enjoy the fall (the second-best season, in my opinion) at Gravel Lake!

Fourth of July Thanks

As always, the Fourth of July is a great time to be at Gravel Lake! There is always so much going on! But we couldn't do it without our incredible community and generous volunteers. Thanks to those who helped make it happen and to those who participated in the events!

Poker Run- This year's sponsors were AMAZING! Thanks to the following sponsors for their generous donations, without which the Poker Run would not have taken place:

Fun Run- Eric Herchenroether and family

Kids Games- Carlie DeSimone

Boat Parade- Mark and Perri Gordon

Paddle Boat Regatta- Kerry Moore and Michael Micheli

Shoreline Activities Requiring a DEQ Permit

1. Shoreline Protection—seawall, bulkhead, riprap, etc. (However, no permit is required for planting native plants on the shoreline!)
2. Permanent docks, permanent boat hoists—anything left in year-round (seasonal docks do not require a permit)
3. Beach sanding—placement of sand, pea stone, or other clean fill below the water line requires a permit (regardless of where it's placed, it's very likely going to end up in the lake; it's essentially fill)
4. Dredging or excavation—a soil erosion permit may be required in addition to a DEQ permit

The bowfin is a fish of many names. Most commonly called the dogfish, some of its other nicknames are the grindle, mudfish, cypress trout, beaverfish, or the lake lawyer. A natural-born survivor, this swift and efficient predator can be found throughout North America, and very commonly in lower Michigan.

The bowfin family dates back to the Jurassic period and has many features that have allowed it to survive and thrive for such a long period. One of these features is its gas bladder, similar to our lungs, that can hold air allowing the bowfin to survive out of water for up to 24 hours. This feature is particularly helpful during times of drought when the bowfin can become buried in mud. Another unique characteristic is the "eye spot" near the tail fin of the bowfin, thought to be a defense mechanism against predators. The theory behind it, being that most predators would attack closer to the eyes, or head of a fish, and it is more likely to survive an attack to the tail rather than the head. It also may be a homing technique to aid the young bowfin as they swim after their father. A school of young bowfin fish is sometimes called a "bowfin ball" that is fiercely protected by the male until the little ones reach 3-4 inches in length. Bowfin thrive in weedy areas, vegetated sloughs, swamps, and can be found in lowly oxygenated ponds and lakes.

Although the bowfin used to be thought of as an invasive species due to their great hunting abilities, this is not actually the case. Because the bowfin only feed on the most abundant of species in their environment, including crayfish, minnows, or small game fish, they actually work to keep the ecosystem in check rather than degrading it. This diet can allow the bowfin to grow up to 21 pounds.

Identified by its long, stout, and slimy body, long dorsal fin and rounded tail fin, the bowfin also harbors a large mouth, full of sharp teeth, which makes them hard to handle and not so beloved among anglers.

The bowfin is sometimes mistaken for the snakehead which is a truly invasive species that can seriously change and harm any lake which it calls home. Though they are similar in appearance, there are some distinguishing differences. If you do indeed suspect that you have caught a snakehead from our lake, please immediately remove the fish and call the DNR. The DNR will then be able to confirm or deny that the fish is actually a snakehead and they will take it from there. Please note these helpful pictures that outline the differences between the two fish. Because snakeheads have no natural predators and can survive out of water for 3-5 days, they are very capable of quickly multiplying and taking over a stable ecosystem. So be kind to our native bowfin, but keep an eye open for its look alike, the snakehead!

Meet A Gravel Laker

We usually get to know a single Gravel Laker in this segment, however this story is a bit different. It's time to be introduced to one home with a lot of lake history. This three-bedroom, two-story home sits on the east end of Willow Beach. What makes it unique is that the four most recent owners of this home on Willow Beach all still reside on Willow Beach.

Though this lakehouse has been standing here much longer, this story begins a few decades ago. John Caskey and his late wife, Gloria Caskey, purchased their Gravel Lake home to enjoy some peace and quiet with their two daughters, Ann and Lori. The home was just a short drive from their Granger, Indiana home. Gloria quickly became famous with her neighbors for her delicious chocolate brownies, while John enjoyed taking his girls for boat rides. John eventually moved down to Gebhard Beach for a larger home but returned back a few years later to Willow Beach.

It was in 2002 that Denise and Dean Schroeder called this place their second home. Hailing from New Lenox, Illinois, the Shroeder's followed the advice of their friend Dave Brown from Sandy Beach and bought an oasis of their own. Dean and Denise and their two daughters, Jessica and Melissa, began enjoying boat rides, bonfires, and a game or two of cornhole. (Dean is pretty good if you're up for a challenge). Not long after, Denise's mother and stepfather moved in next door and enjoyed the lake for many years. Once it was time for them to retire, Dean and Denise moved to another Willow Beach home and just recently became (semi)full-time residents at Gravel Lake.

Next up, the Kelliher's. In 2012, Tom and Darla Kelliher found Gravel Lake after Tom was relocated to Granger, Indiana. With three college-aged sons, Tom, Craig and Matt, the move from Minnesota was pretty simple. After settling in in Granger, Indiana, the Kelliher's began enjoying summertime and weekends at the lake at the Shroeder's former lake home. It wasn't long before this house was busting at the seams most weekends, hosting dozens (yes, dozens) of guests, family, and friends. Enjoying every type of yard game in the book, these lake-lovers took to the water and fit right in with the community. A unique opportunity presented itself this year and they found their way just two doors down to some slightly bigger digs.

Just beginning their lake life this past summer are Nick and Sara Felus. This St. John, Indiana family of five wanted a place to call their own to enjoy some fun in the Michigan sun. So far, they have enjoyed boat rides, the Poker Run, and evenings by the fire. Their children, Adriana, Luke, and Mia, have warmed up quickly to neighbors and living the lake life. This family will surely enjoy all this lake has to offer for years to come.

This home has been part of so many families' lives over the years, bringing family after family to Gravel Lake. And what do the neighbors of over 30 years, May and Richard Moore, think about this place? "It's always sad to see your neighbors and friends move, but when each family is as wonderful as then next, and the old ones end up just a home or two away, you can't beat that!"

Morning Reflection

June 14, 2017

I had an amazing kayaking experience out on the lake today and I thought that I would share it with you.

It is early morning – shortly after a peaceful morning rain. I am kayaking on Gravel Lake. I am the first and only one on the lake. I have this big beautiful lake all to myself. The new day is alive in its morning celebration. Nature is bathing me in attention and love. The remnants of last night's moon, the sun bursting forth from behind the clouds, birds singing everywhere, a turtle, the heron, small frogs are skipping along the water, dragon flies are flying together in their seemingly random yet controlled formations – and all of them are communing with me – as I am communing with them. My mind is quiet. My ego is in check. All is well in the world. I feel a sense of wholeness – completeness – and natural perfection. This is my natural God-given state – alive and well – flowing with the totality of creation.
