President's Corner

What a fantastic summer! If there's something I'm most pleased with, it's our volunteers. We had many great events this year: Spring Clean-Up, Landing Blitz, Fun Run, Paddle Boat Regatta, Boat Parade, Kids' Games, Poker Run, t-shirt sales, Market Day, membership meetings, and the annual picnic. Truly, we are lucky to have this variety of well-organized events. As always, I want to thank both our board and general members who donate their time to make these fun events happen. Moreover, I want to emphasize how important it is that we continue to get some new help each year so we don't burnout the people who regularly volunteer their time. If you like what's going on, please consider volunteering; there are MANY ways to help!

Volunteers will help us with both current and future needs. That said, I'd like to spend some time considering the future. As you know, Missy and I spend a fair amount of time consuming information from the Michigan Lake Stewardship Associations (MLSA) both via meetings and electronically.

Lately, we're hearing more and more about broad external threats to the quality of lakes. In general, the primary concern is water quality. Being specific, other lakes are grappling with how to minimize the impact of Aquatic Invasive Species (AIS), the expansion of DNR-owned public access sites, and water runoff issues from adjacent activities (e.g. farming, industrial). AIS threats continue to multiply (e.g. Eurasian Watermilfoil, Starry Stonewort, Zebra & Quagga mussels, cabomba, phragmites, purple loosestrife, rusty crayfish, snakehead, etc.) and the most "efficient spreader" is a public access site. An excellent way to combat this threat is a boat wash station. Michigan has less than a dozen statewide with Southwest Michigan having two (Gull Lake, Crooked Lake - Delton). While Gull Lake is extremely well endowed, Crooked Lake is more similar to Gravel Lake in terms of number of homeowners and property values. I believe we should be pursuing a solution like this to check the free spread of AIS to Gravel Lake. Regarding DNR site expansion, numerous lakes, including some of our southwest Michigan neighbors have been battling the placement or expansion of public access sites. Understand that the DNR has separate funds for its operations (tight, under-funded) and its property acquisition (endowment with the purpose of increasing access to lakes). As a result, many lake associations have had to battle the placement of a new DNR site on their currently private lake or the expansion of existing sites to allow more parking and boaters. Gravel Lake has at least one or two properties adjacent to our public access that might make viable expansions of the site. Finally, other lake associations have had to invest considerable funds to rectify run-off issues from inlets and adjacent farming operations.

As I think about these potential threats, I'm concerned about how prepared we are (especially financially), to react to these situations. I believe we must be more future-minded about our association fundraising, budgeting, and spending priorities. How do you feel? What questions do you have? I'd like to hear from you via email (cucad4@hotmail.com), text, or via Facebook Messenger.

Gravel Lake is a part of my heart and soul. I want us to do the very best we can!

Craig

Public Access Cleanup!

Help us clean up the public access! Chances are good that you didn't make the mess at the access, but we'd all like to see our lake free of litter. We're organizing clean-up days that will be announced via the Gravel Lake Association Facebook group. Details on dates and what you need to bring will go out in posts from the Facebook group as well as the Google groups email.

Meet a Gravel Laker

I'm feeling the pressure as I put pen to paper—er, hand to keyboard—as I write this article. Sheri Kurtyak has enough history and memories on this lake to fill the Gravel Laker. So I shall do my best to summarize this captivating story and bring to you a tale of a lifetime of love for Gravel Lake.

Neighbors to last article's spotlight guest, Nancy and Vince Dyrek, the Kurtyak home sits on Gebhard Beach. Sheri, her three granddaughters, and her dear friend Paul share this home year round and enjoy all the seasons on the lake, tending to their garden and growing their natural shoreline. But before the "big move" in 1997, Joliet, Illinois native Sheri worked in teaching and as a school librarian in Belvidere, Illinois for 22 years.

Getting to Gravel Lake may have been by chance when her parents and aunt and uncle (parents of bugler Greg Garrett) were looking for a lighthouse. After stumbling upon this lake, they decided to buy the "Ruff House" on July 19, 1948. "We spent summers here with the outhouse, pumped our own water, and used a wringer washer for diapers. Three families and lots of company on weekends," she explains.

This cottage on Winkler still stands, albeit with some upgrades. In 1958, they moved down the beach to what is now the Harbart's home "without the added floor," and sold that in 1966. In 1978, her sister Sue Smilie and Bill purchased what is now the Raab home. Then the day came in 1994, when Helen Pawn decided to sell her cottage next door, and Sheri's mom made the "big move". Having purchased a Provincetown brass bell years before, Sheri now had a place to hang that bell. She is glad her mother got to enjoy her time here at Gravel Lake, although it was short. Sheri says that her mom "loved having everyone visit". 2007 brought her cousin and his wife Marianne back to Gravel Lake, and I am sure many of you have enjoyed his nightly performance of Taps.

Among Sheri's favorite memories on Gravel Lake, she describes:

- Walking to 96th street daily to get the mai
- Penny candies and all-day suckers from Willow Beach Store
- 25 cent milkshakes and 5 cent pinballs at Streeter Beach Store
- Meeting the Cerneys when Jim was blown across the lake on a float in a storm while swimming across the lake
- Spending hours in my 5 1/2 hp boat with Greg and beating Jim Aducci in a race
- "Ditch 'em", a night version of hide-and-seek
- Making new friends when Alice Jennings rented her cottage and seeing her kids when they came for the weekend changeover
- Sledding down the hill and ramp with grandkids this winter and clearing the snow to play hockey

When asked what she loves about Gravel Lake, Sheri can be quoted as follows: "I love all the seasons here. There is something special about each day here, rain or wind, clouds or sun. The snow is magical and after a blizzard, when you are immobile a day or two. Even as a kid we didn't uncover the boat on weekends as there was lots of traffic going both ways. Now we anchor out in the pontoon and enjoy the waves. It is entertaining to watch beginning skiers and the more advanced barefooters. Weekdays are quiet and good fishing.

Hertha Gutmann asked me once if I ever got lonely here. The answer was never. I was at the lake when there was only one phone at the store. If power went out it could be out for days. Now we can communicate no matter what the weather. There're books to read, card games to play, and a cup of coffee or glass of wine to drink while you watch the lake. I never get tired of contemplating the water. The lake life brings us all back. The love of water gets in your being."

Sheri and her family sure get their use out of their days here. If you are wondering which home is theirs, she ays to look for the Cubs W flag flying high. She loves to see and feel the memories being passed down one generation after the next. Thank you Sheri, for sharing your story!

Farewell to a Gravel Lake Friend

Gravel Lake lost one of its biggest fans on June 21st this year. John “Geno” Spiller first experienced Gravel Lake when his parents built their cottage on Dugan's Landing when he was just 8 years old. Our dad got to spend 60 years at Gravel Lake! Many memories, countless laughs and good times were experienced by John at Gravel Lake, or “Lake Relax” as our dad would fondly refer to GL. The last weekend our dad got to spend at Gravel Lake was for his 68th birthday weekend. To our dad, Gravel Lake was heaven on earth.

John spent his childhood summers at the lake, staying with his grandparents who spent their entire summer watching their grandchildren. His earliest memories of GL included working a paper route and spending time fishing, swimming and boating. For years he liked to share the story about how his Grandpa Adducci caught a large fish that put up an enormous fight. So much so, it dragged him through the weed bed, which is how we have the large channel running through the middle. “True story!” he’d say holding up his palm for effect. Our dad also liked to boast about the time he swam across the lake, just to prove that he could do it. And when our parents got married, a trip to Gravel Lake was in order; a honeymoon before the honeymoon.

John's love for Gravel Lake was contagious. Convincing his friends to help open and close for the season was never difficult. This rite of passage became a bi-annual event that many of his friends from high school and college still reminisce about and looked forward to getting the call for the invite! When asked what to pack, he'd always tell them, "You only need to bring a swimsuit and a clean pair of underwear!" Passing on his love of water sports, he proudly taught his three daughters and grandkids how to water ski, drive the boats, and catch fish.

In his final days, Gravel Lake was a favorite topic of our dad's, always getting excited to hear about our weekends this past spring. A final wish of his was for the family to plan time to be up there together and enjoy one another's company. "Keep Swimming" he would say. This summer we honored many of his wishes.

Gravel Lake was truly our dad's favorite place in the world. "The Cleanest Lake in America", he would proclaim to anyone who may not be aware of its beauty. After 60 summers at Gravel Lake, his spirit lives on there. We see him in every sunrise and feel his presence whenever his grandkids excitedly pull a fish from the water. The grandkids will reel in the fish and say, "This one's for you, Papa!"
